

MA/MSc Peace and Conflict

(One Year Full Time or Two Years Part Time)

Introduction

The MA/MSc Peace and Conflict is designed to provide students with a rigorous understanding of the causes and consequences of the processes of conflict and settlement. Students analyse the different ways that religion, ethnicity and inequality combine to generate internal violent conflicts, with examples ranging from Estonia to India, from Transylvania to Cyprus, and from Northern Ireland to the Basque Country. Students develop the ability to evaluate different policy options and institutional designs for conflict resolution.

A wide range of specialisations are available to enable students to select areas where they wish to develop their expertise. In UCD, students may choose to study for an MA or MSc qualification in Peace and Conflict. The MSc track includes additional research components and is particularly suitable for a career in research or academia. The MA track is broader and allows students to choose to complete a dissertation or apply for an internship.

Programme Highlight

- the theoretical literature on peace and conflict
- · the discussed cases
- · simulations of policy-making
- studying in a very international group

Programme Content and Structure

90 creditsTaught Masters

60 creditsTaught Module

30 credits Dissertation

or

30 credits Internship (MA only

Core Modules:

- Peace & Conflict Studies
- · Research Design (MA only)

Additional core modules required for MSc:

- Introduction to Statistics
- Qualitative Research Methods for Political Science

Core Option Modules:

MA students choose two optional modules and MSc students choose one optional modules from the list below:

- EU Foreign and Security Policy
- Gender Peace and Security
- International Security

Option Modules:

Choose two optional modules from the partial list below:

- Theories of Global Justice
- Political Violence
- Gender, Conflict-related Harm & Transitional Justice
- IR Theory: Conflict and Identity
- Comparative European Politics
- International Security
- Gender Peace and Security
- Nationalism and Social Change
- Theory of Human Rights
- Programming for Social Scientists

Why study at UCD?

Graduate Education

12,000 graduate students; 17% graduate research students; structured PhDs

Graduate Employability

Ranked no. 1 in Ireland in QS Graduate Employability ranking

Global Careers

Dedicated careers support; 2 year stayback visa to work in Ireland

Global Community

8,500 international students and 300,000 alumni network across 165 countries

Global Profile

UCD is ranked in the top 1% of higher education institutions worldwide

Welcoming Campus

Modern parkland campus with 24 hr security. Wide range of facilities, clubs, societies and supports

Career Opportunities

Graduates work with international bodies, non-governmental organisations and state agencies in roles such as: government social researchers, diplomatic advisors and public affair consultants.

Recent graduates of UCD School of Politics & International Relations now work in:

- United Nations
- · World Trade Organisation
- IMI
- · European Commission
- · Asia Development Bank

Applicant Profile

- A primary degree with at least Second Class Honours Grade 1 (2H1). 2H1 is equivalent to 60 percent, B minus or 3.08 GPA - in American system: B or 3.00 GPA.
- Your application will be considered on its individual merits and individual professional experience will also be taken into account.
- Applicants whose first language is not English must also demonstrate English language proficiency of IELTS 6.5 (no band less than 6.0 in each element), or equivalent.

Fees and Scholarships

Tuition fee information is available on www.ucd.ie/fees. Please note that UCD offers a number of graduate scholarships for full-time, self-funding international students, holding an offer of a place on a UCD masters programme. Please see www.ucd.ie/global/scholarships for further information.

SPIRe also offers a Masters Graduate Scholarship to full-time EU and Non-EU Masters students. Please see www.ucd.ie/ spire/study/prospectivemastersstudents/ spiremastersgraduatescholarship for further information.

Related Masters

- MA/MSc International Relations
- MA/MSc International Development
- MA/MSc Politics

Graduate Profile

Ines Meyer

I chose to study the MSc Peace and Conflict at UCD because it offers an interdisciplinary perspective to understanding conflict through the lens of gender, psychology, human rights, and political economy. The students in this programme come from all over the world and bring diverse experiences and perspectives into the classroom. The close interaction with my classmates and professors also shaped how I understand conflict-related harm, and the prospects of working towards a more peaceful society.

I decided to follow the research-oriented MSc-track to get a deeper understanding of the various methods to analyse conflict dynamics. I specialised in conflict psychology and gender, harm, and transitional justice. Both have an extensive working experience in conflict-affected regions and provide us with invaluable insights into their personal experiences.

Moreover, I received the SPIRe postgraduate scholarship, which allowed me to focus on my studies and gain hands-on teaching experience as a tutor. Furthermore, UCD has many student associations, events, and its own Centre for Peace and Conflict research (CPCR) which give students opportunities to engage and connect with people from different programmes. Ultimately, the MSc Peace and Conflict prepares us for various careers in research institutions, NGOs, government agencies or international organisations.

CONTACT US
EU Students
t: 353 1 716 8182
e: graduatespire@ucd.ie
w: www.ucd.ie/spire

International Students
e: internationalenquiries@ucd.ie w: www.ucd.ie/global

APPLY NOW

This programme receives significant interest so please apply early online at