

MA/MSc European Politics & Policy

(One Year Full Time or Two Years Part Time)

Introduction

The Masters programmes in European Politics and Policy-making aim to attract students interested in understanding European politics in comparative context, the challenges faced by European states in the 21st century, and the process of developing policy responses to these.

Issues such as the rise of the far right and the implications of populism for democratic politics, the ongoing challenges of multilevel governance for economic and political stability, and the security concerns for European states and for Europe in relation to other power blocs, all require urgent attention from political decision makers.

This programme offers an opportunity to explore similarities and differences between the political systems of European states, the distinctive politics of the European Union, and the role of Europe in all its diversity on the world stage.

Programme Highlight

This programme aims to equip students with a deep and comprehensive knowledge of European politics and international relations, to critically appraise events and developments in European integration, and to establish a basis for students' professional development as European policy specialists.
